Dear Parents and Carers

A reminder for parents of Critical Workers

Yesterday, the government issued further guidance to schools over attendance. It re-states my closing paragraph from yesterday's letter on getting help with technology, which you may have missed or not read:

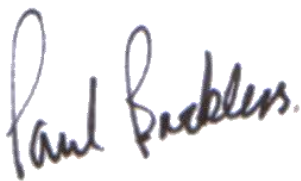

Critical Workers (extract)

*Schools should speak to parents and carers to identify who needs to go to school. If it proves necessary, schools can ask for simple evidence that the parent in question is a critical worker, such as their work ID badge or pay slip. Parents and carers who are critical workers should keep their children at home if they can.

I'm sure you would agree that it is vitally important to minimise the spread of the virus, if at all possible, at this current time. With this in mind, also following the guidance issued yesterday, the staff are now working on a rota, to enable some members of the team to work from home whilst supporting children's remote learning.

It has been a challenging week for schools across the country. Once again, thank you on behalf of the Stonebow team for your patience, understanding and support.

Yours sincerely

Paul Brockless
